How often should it be performed?

Preventative Maintenance is as important to your door as an oil change is to your car. For most products, preventative maintenance is recommended every six months. However, more frequently used doors, like those in parking structures that are more prone to problems, should be inspected more often. Preventative Maintenance can be scheduled annually, semi-annually, quarterly, bi-monthly, or monthly through your local service center.

What if repairs are needed?

Customers will be notified if our technicians find any needed repairs that are found outside the scope of maintenance. Approval for this additional work will be requested and is required in order to proceed. By choosing Lawrence Doors we want you, as our customer, to feel confident that your doors and gates are working smoothly and safely.
